Shabana Khan: Jewelry that Makes a Statement

LOS ANGELES – This season’s must-have fashion item is statement jewelry from Shabana Khan – big, bold, statement pieces that catch the eye and capture the soul.

Shabana Khan has launched her new line of original designs, all hand-crafted by highly skilled artisans in India. Each piece is unique and named after a woman who influenced the young designer’s life – from her mother to her daughter.

Shabana Khan, a graduate of Temple University, made the courageous move westward leaving Philadelphia and New York for Los Angeles. Since living in LA, a fashion inspired city with flexibility to express who you really are, Shabana decided to follow her passion, designing a jewelry line.

Khan has made many trips to her homeland of India where she was overcome by the stunning jewelry of the country. She began to collect gorgeous statement pieces and realized she truly had an eye for beauty.

She has always had the strong desire to design pieces that empower the essence of a woman. Each piece is brave, just as a woman, while still embodying enchanting feminine details. Khan invokes captivating colors and the real gemstones of ruby and emeralds, extremely rare to find at her prices.

Khan’s pieces are constructed of the finest metals and uncut gemstones, all with the look of museum-quality pieces that are as much objets d’art as they are wearable jewelry. The eclectic varieties of gemstones are surreal and can be worn to show off at any venue or for any occasion.

“When I design, I keep in mind the lifestyle of my clients,” Ms. Khan said, “These pieces can be worn both casually and elegantly. They reflect the discerning taste and flair of the women who wear them.”
